PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE:

HAPPY NEW YEAR and what a Happy New Year it was as the NOLES defeated West Virginia in the Gator Bowl on January 1st: 33 – 21. I don't know about you but I cried a lot – too many times to mention. What a tribute to "our Bobby" this final game for him!

It's going to be really difficult to imagine FSU football without Bobby Bowden and Mickey Andrews. They will always be a part of us and of

NEWS FROM FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

ERIC J. BARRON NAMED PRESIDENT OF THE FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY.

Dec. 8, 2009: The FSU Board of Trustees selected FSU alumnus Eric J. Barron, director of the National Center for Atmospheric Research, to serve as the University's 14th President. Board of Trustees Chairman, Jim Smith reported, "His national prominence in his field, his extensive fundraising experience and his superlative administrative skills are an excellent fit for Florida State."

Barron earned a bachelor's degree in geology from FSU as an honors student in 1973. He holds master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Miami, both in oceanography. He has been director of the highly prominent national laboratory, the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR) in Boulder, Colo., since 2008. Previously, Barron was dean of the newly formed Jackson School of Geosciences at the University of Texas at Austin and from 1986 to 2006, Barron was at Pennsylvania State University, where he was professor of geosciences, director of the Earth System Science Center, director of the EMS Environment Institute, and finally dean of the College of Earth and Mineral Sciences.

A highly visible scientist, Barron stressed his commitment to the full spectrum of academic disciplines, saying he is "an ardent supporter and advocate for the full spectrum of excellence in the arts and humanities, sciences, law, business and medicine." A native of Lafayette, Ind., Barron has two grown children. He said that he and his wife, Molly, are "a partnership" and that she will be an active participant in supporting Florida State University while he is president.
